SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 2007 9:30 a.m. – Noon

Go Native and Plant Now for Spring Color

Now is the time to begin planting so you can enjoy a colorful display of spring flowers -- and so plants can establish strong root systems during rainy months! Learn how to choose and grow California natives and other Mediterranean plants to create a beautiful garden that provides wildlife habitat, uses less water and is pesticide free. Meet some plants that are great performers and learn which plants are best for containers, shade and wildlife, and what to plant under oaks. Learn about some birds and butterflies that are attracted to these colorful, low-care plants. You will take home plants, a growing guide and other helpful resources. Course Instructor: Debi Tidd of The Gardens at Heather Farm.

Sponsored in cooperation with College of Marin's Community Education Department. For information call 415-485-9305 or visit online at www.marincommunityed.org
